

Improve the impact of training programs and validate your company's investment in learning

Docebo Learning Impact measures the success of your learning program and saves you hours of time by leveraging ready-to-go questionnaires and reports that compare your results against benchmarks.

Designed to help you make data-driven decisions by providing you with insight into how impactful your learning program is on your people.

Prove that learning is a strategic investment by connecting it to performance improvement, and communicate with a suite of reports and dashboards that scale as you grow.

Maximize learner engagement as response rates increase. As more feedback rolls in, tweak your training program to increase impact for your learners based on their own experience.

Go beyond the numbers and measure Learning Impact at scale
