Credibility counts

According to the 2020 Global Coaching Study, almost three in four respondents (74%) said they are an ICF Member. Respondents who were members of one or more professional associations reported 30% higher average revenue/income from coaching compared to those who are not currently members.

Being an ICF Member brings instant credibility. It means you are dedicated to coaching excellence and ethics as defined by the largest and most influential organization in the world — ICF.

Join a local ICF Chapter

When you apply for ICF Membership, you'll have a chance to affiliate with your local ICF Chapter.

ICF has more than 120 Chapters in 50-plus countries worldwide. Membership will provide the opportunity to network with your peers at Chapter events, enjoy valuable continuing education offerings and help your local community thrive through pro bono coaching initiatives and other service projects.

Membership benefits

ICF Membership brings a host of benefits. As an ICF Member, you will be able to:

- Participate in ICF Communities of Practice
- Pursue volunteer leadership positions and the local or global level
- Access member-only online content
- Enjoy free and discounted access to industry research
- Participate in local and global conferences and events at a significant discount
- Receive discounts on ICF Credential applications

Membership eligibility

ICF is committed to ensuring that all members possess the necessary training to provide outstanding service to their clients.

By completing at least 60 hours of coach-specific training that meets ICF's standards, you are eligible to apply for ICF Membership. Learn more about ICF's Membership Eligibility Requirements at coachingfederation.org/mer.
